

1. Organic Farming – The way forward and Present Scenario

India has a glorious history of farming. Indus Valley Civilization is the reflection of the agricultural practices followed by our farmers and its root of which can be well seen in many of our cultural practices followed today. It was organic farming that sustained Indian farmers from the ages. It can be well said that the concept of organic farming is very much native to our land and our farmers by default are organic. Organic farming was just not a method of farming in India – but it used to be a way of life and a tradition which has shaped the thought, the outlook, the culture and economic life of its people for centuries.

However, many of our old and traditional agricultural practices started disappearing in the post-independent era. The Green Revolution aimed to ‘grow more food’ to meet the food requirements of our growing population was the biggest national challenge. The nation could achieve through the tireless efforts of our committed agricultural scientists. It was possible by introducing new high yielding and hybrid varieties of crops and use of high analysis NPK fertilizers and plant protection chemicals, adoption of advanced agricultural practices, increased cropping intensity, effective agricultural extension and enhancement in area under cultivation and irrigation. Neglecting ecological and ecosystem principles, resulted in significant and seemingly irrevocable environment damage in the country. Many traditional crop varieties were replaced with high yielding varieties during the period. The crops and varieties which were not adapted to the soil and other environmental conditions attracted new pests and diseases and resulted in outbreaks of existing pests. To combat them, huge quantities of pesticides were used. Inclusion of these inputs of exotic elements in the traditional farming led to multiple environmental issues. The microorganisms declined, living soils became less productive and lost its health and fertility. Water demand increased and the time tested traditional varieties disappeared. The eternal relationship between a farmer and farm land was lost. Bio-diversity in the agricultural fields slowly started vanishing. As a result of all these modern techniques, the air, water and the soil were polluted and most food grains, farm products were contaminated by pesticides. To overcome all these ill effects of conventional agriculture, it was felt in the country that nature friendly organic agriculture as an only alternative.

In Karnataka state, organic farming movement was initiated by the innovative farmers of the state and the movement gained momentum during 1980s. The advent of chemical intensive farming and its prevalence in Karnataka during the later part of green revolution resulted in the near stagnant levels of productivity of many crops. The farmers were into debt trap because of incurring high cost on farming as these crops demanded more external inputs such as fertilizers, pesticides and water. Cost of cultivation increased drastically and thereby the net income declined. These factors led to increasing instances of suicides by farmers. Many farmers of Karnataka felt that they are fighting a losing battle with the ‘high yield variety-fertilizer-pesticide package’ of Green Revolution and realized that Organic Farming as the only alternative system at this juncture. They were convinced that the only way is to return to the traditional sustainable ways of cultivation without harming the ecosystem. Thus the organic farming system with the broad principle of 'live and let live' is recognized as the best sustainable system of farming under the prevailing conditions.

‘We have not inherited this earth from our forefathers, but have borrowed it from our future generations, it is our duty to protect it by living in complete harmony with nature and environment’

Organic farming – present scenario

Global Scenario

According to the latest FiBL- IFOAM survey on certified organic agriculture worldwide, (as at the end of 2015) data on organic agriculture was available from 179 countries and the organic agricultural land including conversion areas was 50.9 million hectares. Currently, one per cent of the agricultural land of the total 179 surveyed countries are organic. Of the global organic farmland, Oceania has 22.8 million hectares (45 per cent), Europe 12.7 million hectares (25 per cent) and Latin America 6.8 million hectares (15 per cent). The countries with the most organic agricultural land are: Australia (22.7 million hectares), Argentina (3.1 million hectares) and the United States (2.0 million hectares). Apart from agricultural land, the area also includes the area under wild collection. Other areas also include aquaculture, forests and grazing areas on non agricultural land and it constitute more than 35 million hectares. The total area under agriculture and non agriculture area was 78 million hectares. In all there were almost 2.4 million producers in 2015 as per the survey. The countries with most producers were in India (5.8 lakh) followed by Ethiopia (2.03 lakh) and Mexico (2.0 lakh). The market research company on Organic Monitor estimates 81.6 billion US dollars in 2015 (approximately 75 billion Euro) of global market for organic food. The United States is the leading market (with 35.9 billion Euros), followed by Germany (8.6 billion Euros), France (5.5 billion Euros) and China (4.7 billion Euros). Most of the major markets during the survey showed double- digit growth rates and the highest per capita spending was in Switzerland (262 Euros). Denmark had the highest organic market share of 8.4 percent of the total food market.

Indian Scenario

India has the highest number of organic producers in the world (5.8 lakh). In India, the area under organic certification as on March 2016 is 57.09 lakh hectares. The country exported 2.64 lakh tons of various commodities worth about Rs. 1900 crore, which account for 0.3 per cent of global organic trade.

Present scenario in Karnataka

Karnataka state has a rich potential for organic farming. Farmers of Karnataka are progressive, innovative with great inclination towards adoption of environment friendly and sustainable organic agriculture. Considering this, Karnataka Government brought out Organic Farming Policy during 2004 for promotion of organic farming in the state. With successful implementation of organic farming policy initiatives and great concern of the farming community, the state could achieve substantial progress in organic agriculture.

With implementation of the policy initiatives, the state witnessed a steady growth in the Organic Sector with the increase in certified area under Organic cultivation. These initiatives were also able to create awareness in the farming community regarding the benefits of organic farming so also about the consumption of healthy chemical residue free organic foods in consumers.

At present, Karnataka Stands 5th in the country in terms of total cultivated area (ha) under organic certification (including in conversion) at 93, 963 ha as on March 2016 which was hardly 2500 ha during 2004-05. The state stood 3rd in total certified production (2. 83 lakh tons). This is indicative of immense opportunities available to the state in view of its inherent advantage of climate and diversified production. Important crops grown under organic are: cereals and millets (non basmati paddy, maize, bajra and ragi), Fruits (mango, pineapple, banana), spices & condiments (arecanut, black pepper, chilli, cinnamon, cloves, ginger, turmeric, nutmeg, parsley, bay leans), sugar crops (sugar cane), plantation (coffee, coconut), pulses (blackgram, greengram, bengalgram, horsegram, pigeonpea), Oilseeds (sesame, ground nut and soybean), medicinal and aromatic plants (amla, aswagandha, brahmi, tulsi, citronella, chia, gymnema lemon grass, maringa, palmarosa).

The challenges in organic agriculture sector today in Karnataka are many. At one end, organic farmers are not getting remunerative prices for their organic products, and at the other end the consumers are not getting required quality and quantity of organic products in spite of dramatic growth in market size and continuous increase in demand for organic food products. There has been a constant demand from organic farmers associations throughout the State and also from other organic farmers to provide systematic market linkages for their organic produce. At present, farmers of the state are also looking towards developing an organized organic market as they are finding it difficult to market their organic produce. In this direction, attempts were made in the state to organize several organic producers- marketers meet. The state also brought out a organic farming directory during 2017 of all the stake holders of organic farming, where in details of certified organic farmers, resource persons, organic input dealers, organic produce marketers/ processors, NGOs engaged in organic farming, availability of organic produce/ products with farmers/ groups/ association etc., are provided. The directory has also been uploaded in the website of the Department of Agriculture.

Regional Centre of Organic Farming (RCOF)

*Government of India, Ministry of Agriculture & Farmers Welfare, Department of Agriculture Cooperation and Farmers Welfare, Kannamangla Cross, Whitefield Hoskote Road , Kadugodi (Post), Bengaluru 560115
Ph No. 080 -28450505 Email ID: biofkk06@nic.in*

National Project on Organic Farming (NPOF), a central sector scheme was started in 10th Five Year Plan in order to facilitate, encourage and promote organic farming in the country. To implement the NPOF in the country a National Centre of Organic Farming (NCOF) at Ghaziabad and its six Regional Centres at Bengaluru, Bhubaneshwar, Panchkula, Imphal, Jabalpur and Nagpur were established on 1st October, 2004 (The seventh centre at Bihar will be established in the year 2017). The Regional centre of Organic Farming, Bengaluru is engaged in promotion of organic farming in Karnataka, Tamilnadu, Kerala, and Lakshadweep & Islands under its jurisdictions.

Objectives:

- Technical capacity building of all the stakeholders including human resource development, transfer of technology, promotion and production of quality organic and biological inputs
- Creation of awareness through publicity, print and electronic media
- To act as a nodal quality control laboratory of biofertilizers and organic fertilizers

- Revision of standards and testing protocols of organic inputs
- Promotion of technology development through support to research and market development
- Maintenance of microbial culture of biofertilizers, biocontrol agents, waste decomposer for supplying to production units
- Promotion of low cost certification system: Participatory Guarantee System
- Promotion and establishment of agro-waste compost, bio-fertilizers and bio-pesticides production units through Capital Investment Subsidy Scheme (CISS) under NPOF

Present activities:

- Farmers training and demonstration of organic farming practices in Sansad Adarsh Gram Yojana villages
- Quality testing and analysis of Biofertilizer and organic manures
- Maintenance and distribution of biofertilizer/ biocontrol/ cellulose degraders microbial cultures
- Promotion of PGS-INDIA organic certification
- Training to department officers/ Extension workers/ NGOs/ Specialists
- Demonstration of New waste Decomposer technology
- Participation in Seminar/ Conference/ Meetings/ Exhibitions
- Publication of literatures
- Effective implementation of Paramparagath Krushi Vikas Yojana (PKVY) scheme
- Research and innovations

Research Institute on Organic Farming (RIOF), Bengaluru

University of Agricultural Sciences, GKVK, Bengaluru
Email: uasriof@gmail.com Contact No: 080- 23627977

The Research Institute on Organic Farming (RIOF) was established with the financial assistance of Rastriya Krishi Vikas Yojana (RKVY) during 2007-08 at University of Agricultural Sciences, UAS, Bengaluru with nine sub centres.

Sub Centres of Research Institute on Organic Farming

- i) ARS Arasikere
- ii) ARS- Balajigapade,
- iii) ARS- Chinthamani
- iv) ARS Gunjevu
- v) ARS- Madenur
- vi) ZARS Mandya
- vii) ARS- Naganahalli
- viii) ARS- Pavagada
- ix) ARS Tiptur

Objectives:

- Scientific validation of organic farming practices, farmers knowledge and local wisdom
- Developing package of practices for various organic crops
- Developing various production technologies of producing FYM, compost, enriched compost etc., for efficient recycling of organic wastes

- Developing diversified cropping systems based on resource base of the farms
- Developing and promoting suitable bio-fertilizers and bio-pesticides for organic farming
- To identify and promote suitable integrated farming systems for different agro climatic zones
- To identify /develop alternate land use systems for degraded resource bases
- To provide value addition and market linkage for organic products
- To provide quality assessment and sustainable indicators for organic farming
- To promote capacity building to organic farming stakeholders

The main Research Issues focused in the project are:

- Scientific validation of various systems of organic farming
- Developing Integrated Farming Systems (IFS) to achieve farming sustainability
- Establishment/development of suitable methods of composting solid and liquid farm waste.

Organic Farming Research Institute (OFRI) Raichur

OFRI, University of Agricultural Sciences, Raichur
Phone : 08532-221990
E-mail : satyanarayanc kulkarni@rediffmail.com

Organic Farming Research Institute, Raichur was established during 2013 at Main Agricultural Research Station, University of Agricultural Sciences, Raichur with five sub centres located at Agricultural Research Stations, Bidar, Kalburgi, Bimarayanagudi, Gangavathi and Hagari

Objectives:

- Survey, documentation and scientific validation of existing organic farming practices followed by farmers
- To carry out long term location specific, demand driven, farmers oriented research so as to assess productivity, profitability and soil health and standardize the protocol for organic production of different crops and cropping systems under rain fed and irrigated ecosystems of the region
- To diversify cropping systems and also develop and promote suitable integrated organic farming system modules for varied agro-climatic zones (Zone-1, 2 and 3) in the region
- To develop efficient/novel microbial strains, establish the mass production units of bio-fertilizers, bio-pesticides and organic manures for large scale multiplication, demonstration and supply
- To develop cost effective new techniques for rapid composting of farm wastes for resource recycling

- To provide interventions, support and solutions to problems which may arise from time to time for effective implementation of the Karnataka State Policy on organic farming
- To develop human resources to meet the needs of organic sector
- To promote the farmers groups to facilitate certification, market linkage and awareness

Infrastructure facilities developed and services being offered:

1. Institute office building with multi discipline research laboratories.
2. Bio-farm with Integrated Organic Farming System Module for demonstration and Research block, as per NPOP standards in 20 acres.
3. Mass production and supply of bio-fertilizers, bio-pesticides and organic manures.
4. Capacity building for all organic stake holders through various extension services, apart from educating UG and PG agricultural students.

Research accomplishments:

- a). Organic production technologies for Greengram, Rabi Sorghum, Redgram, Sunflower, Chickpea and Paddy.
- b). New composting techniques for efficient utilization of red gram and cotton stalks.

Institute of Organic Farming (IOF) University of Agricultural Sciences, Dharwad

IOF, University of Agricultural Sciences, Dharwad

E-mail: iofdwd@uasd.in

Phone: +91-836-2214 305 / +91-836-2444 809

Fax: +91-836-2748 377

University of Agricultural Sciences (UAS), Dharwad is the first state agricultural university in the country to initiate comprehensive organic research programmes for development of organic package of practices in different crops/ cropping systems in diversified cropping situations as early as 2000 through establishment of UAS- Network Project on Organic Farming in its 22 Agricultural Research Stations in Northern Karnataka region.

The organic farming institute established at UAS, Dharwad during 2007- 08 under the financial assistance of Rashtriya Krishi Vikas Yojana (RKVY).

Objectives

- To study productivity, profitability, sustainability, quality and input use efficiency of conventional and organic production systems across different agro-climatic regions of Northern Karnataka
- To standardize protocol for organic agriculture production
- To develop beneficial microbial strains, to mass produce, popularize and supply quality organic manures bio-fertilizers, bio-pesticides quality analysis and their improvement

- To survey and document existing knowledge on organic farming practices followed by farmers through the validations of indigenous practices
- To promote the farmers' groups to facilitate certification, marketing and consumer awareness to develop human resources to meet the needs of the organic farming sector.
- To standardize the protocol for organic production practices for different crops and cropping systems

The Institute has a state of the art laboratory facilities and field facilities with multi-disciplinary faculty drawn from Agronomy, Soil Science and Agricultural Chemistry, Soil Microbiology, Agricultural Entomology and Plant Pathology. The IOF has ICAR's Network project on organic farming, Bio-Resource Farm, mass production units of bio-fertilizers, bio-pesticides and other bio-inputs supported under Government of Karnataka through ICAR programmes. These programmes enabled the Institute of Organic Farming to develop organic package of practices in several crops of northern parts of Karnataka state. The Institute also supplies required bio-inputs which play a great role in conversion to organic farming. It has a laboratory for analysing research soil, water, plant and organic manure samples. Laboratory facility is also available for quality analysis of bio-fertilizers and bio-pesticides and for mass production of bio-fertilizers and bio-pesticides. To support the research activities in the agricultural university, the Bio-Resource Farm with an area of 16 hectares has been established at the Main Agricultural Research Station, University of Agricultural Sciences, Dharwad.

Organic Farming Research Centre, Navile, Shivamogga

*University of Agricultural and Horticultural Sciences,
Shivamogga
Phone: 08182- 290436*

Model organic farm was started in 2007-08 at ZARS, Navile funded by NCOF, Govt. of India and later, it was converged with Research Institute on Organic Farming funded by RKVY, Govt. of India. The centre is located in Navile campus, Shivamogga district which lies in southern transitional tract with sub centres at ZARS Bramahavara, ARS Ponnampete, ARS Kathlagere, ARS Bhavikere. The activities of the centre are spread over different agro climatic zones of the state which includes dry and irrigated areas of transitional tract, hilly and coastal areas.

Objectives:

- To document existing organic farming practices, traditional wisdom on organic and other related practices and local biodiversity.
- Scientific validation of different organic farming practices
- To promote integrated farming systems suitable for dry lands, irrigated, hilly and coastal regions
- To upgrade technical capacity building for farmers, line department staff, master trainers, NGO's and traders etc.

Important activities of the centre

- a) Scientific validation of different practices of organic farming which are already in vogue with farmers are carried out in farmers field itself. While, technologies developed at research stations are being tested both at University and at farmers fields. The research activities pertaining to the local need and also for technology up-gradation will be conducted at main centre.
- b) Experiments were conducted at the centre for development of Package of practices of organic Redgram, Fieldbean, Groundnut, Chilli, Tomato and Paddy.

Karnataka State Organic Certification Agency (KSOCA)

Karnataka State Organic Certification Agency is a Government of Karnataka undertaking, serving as an organic certification agency in the state for the benefit of organic farmers. After establishment of a separate organic certification division in the Karnataka State Seeds Certification Agency (KSSCA), it was renamed as Karnataka State Seed and Organic Certification Agency (KSOCA). The agency got approval as an organic accreditation body under NPOP with effect from 17-08-2015 (individual and ICS group). It has made MoU with Aditi Organic Certification Pvt.Ltd. and Association for Promotion of Organic Farming (APOF) Bengaluru in organic certification.

Objectives:

- To provide reliable, prompt, efficient and superior organic certification services at reasonable cost to organic farmers and other stakeholders
- To guarantee genuinity of organic produce to the consumers

Organic certification services available in KSOCA :

- Organic farm (Individual)
- Group organic farmers (ICS)
- Organic Wild collection
- Organic product processing
- Organic Product Traders, and
- Organic input approval

Procedure for organic certification

Applicant (a farmer/group of farmers/processor/ trader) seeking organic certification by KSOCA shall contact through email (ksocabng@gmail.com) / post (KAIC premises, opp. Baptist Hospital,

Hebbal, Bengaluru-24, Telephone (080-23418302) / personal visit to KSOCA office to obtain the application package for organic certification.

The application package including the application form, frequently asked questions (FAQs), procedure for certification, details on fees, brochure will be given/ sent to the operator. The application form may be filled, signed and returned to KSOCA for registration. After the scrutiny of application and acceptance by the evaluator , the offer letter (approximate fee for the inspection and certification) and a copy of the agreement will be sent to the operator by the evaluator .The operator is registered on tracenet as per the APEDA procedure.

Mode of Payment of certification charges

The operator has to pay 75% of the estimated certification fee as an advance for the inspection and certification services. The signed copy of the agreement shall be sent by operator along with fees. On receipt of the payment, KSOCA fixes the inspection date in consultation with the operator and sends the intimation letter. After inspection of the farm, the detailed inspection report along with copy of the agreement and the final invoice based on the actual expenses will be sent to the operator by the evaluator and the balance amount need to be settled by the operator.

Trace net entry

For individual operator: the detailed crop list along with the major and minor non-conformities and the deadline for corrective actions is entered in the trace net. For group of farmers the certification body verifies the data entered in the trace net by the group and also enters the major and minor non-conformities along with the deadline for taking corrective actions.

Certification

After receipt of the full payment, the evaluator reviews the file of operator and submits the same to the certification committee. The certification committee takes a final decision based on the corrective measures taken by the operator against the non-conformities raised in the inspection report. The quality manager, KSOCA will generate the certificate through the trace net and sends the same to operator.

Renewal:

Validity of the certificate will be for a period of one year from the date of issue and it shall be renewed every year on payment of required fee and further inspection and certification.

APPENDIX-I
NATIONAL STANDARDS FOR ORGANIC
PRODUCTION (NSOP)
(Extract from section 3 of NPOP)

3.1 CROP PRODUCTION

3.1.1 Conversion Requirements

General Principles

Organic agriculture means a process of developing a viable and sustainable agro-ecosystem. The time between the start of organic management and certification of crops and/or animal husbandry is known as the conversion period. The whole farm, including livestock, should be converted according to the standards over a period of three years.

Recommendations

For a sustainable agro-ecosystem to function optimally, diversity in crop production and Animal husbandry must be arranged in such a way that there is an interplay of all the Elements of the farming management.

Conversion may be accomplished over a period of time. A farm may be converted step by step. The totality of the crop production and all animal husbandry should be converted to Organic management. There should be a clear plan of how to proceed with the conversion. This plan shall be updated if necessary and should cover all aspects relevant to these standards.

The certification programme should set standards for different farming systems so that they can be clearly separated in production as well as in documentation, and the standards should determine norms to prevent a mix up of input factors and products.

Standards

3.1.1.1. The standards requirements shall be met during the conversion period. All the standards requirements shall be applied on the relevant aspects from the beginning of the conversion period itself.

3.1.1.2. If the whole farm is not converted, the certification programme shall ensure that the organic and conventional parts of the farm are separate and inspectable.

3.1.1.3. Before products from a farm/project can be certified as organic, inspection shall have been carried out during the conversion period. The start of the conversion period may be calculated from the date of application of the certification programme or from the date of last application of unapproved farm inputs provided it can demonstrate that standards requirements have been met from that date of implementation.

For the length of conversion periods, please refer to sections 3.2.2 and 3.3.2.

3.1.1.4. Simultaneous production of conventional, organic in conversion and/or organic crops or animal products which cannot be clearly distinguished from each other, will not be allowed.

3.1.1.5. To ensure a clear separation between organic and conventional production, a buffer zone or a natural barrier should be maintained. The certification Programme shall ensure that the requirements are met.

3.1.1.6. A full conversion period is not required where the factors full standards requirements have been met for several years and where this can be verified through several means and sources. In such cases inspection shall be carried out with a reasonable time interval before the first harvest

3.1.2 Maintenance of Organic Management

General Principles

Organic certification is based on continuance.

Recommendations

The certification programme should only certify production which is likely to be maintained on a long-term basis.

Standards

3.1.2.1. Converted land and animals shall not get switched back and forth between organic and conventional management.

3.1.3 Landscape

General Principles

Organic farming should contribute beneficially to the ecosystem.

Recommendations

Areas which should be managed properly and linked to facilitate biodiversity:

Extensive grassland such as moorlands, reed land or dry land

In general all areas which are not under rotation and are not heavily manured

Extensive pastures, meadows, extensive grassland, extensive orchards, hedges, Hedgerows, groups of trees and/or bushes and forest lines

Ecologically rich fallow land or arable land

Ecologically diversified (extensive) field margins

Waterways, pools, springs, ditches, wetlands and swamps and other water rich areas which are not used for intensive agriculture or aqua production

Areas with ruderal flora.

The certification programme shall set standards for a minimum percentage of the farm area to facilitate biodiversity and nature conservation.

Standards

3.1.3.1. The certification programme shall develop landscape and biodiversity standards.

3.2 Crop Production

3.2.1 Choice of Crops and Varieties

General Principles

All seeds and plant material should be certified organic.

Recommendations

Species and varieties cultivated should be adapted to the soil and climatic conditions and be resistant to pests and diseases.

In the choice of varieties genetic diversity should be taken into consideration.

Standards

3.2.1.1 When organic seed and plant materials are available, they shall be used. The certification programme shall set time limits for the requirement of certified organic seed and other plant material.

3.2.1.2. When certified organic seed and plant materials are not available, chemically untreated conventional materials shall be used.

3.2.1.3. The use of genetically engineered seeds, pollen, transgene plants or plant material is not allowed.

3.2.2 Duration of Conversion Period

General Principles

The establishment of an organic management system and building of soil fertility requires an interim period, the conversion period. The conversion period may not always be of sufficient duration to improve soil fertility and re-establish the balance of the ecosystem but it is the period in which all the actions required to reach these goals are started.

Recommendations

The duration of the conversion period must be adapted to:

- the past use of the land
- the ecological situation

Standards

3.2.2.1. Plant products produced can be certified organic when the national standards requirements have been met during a conversion period of at least two years before sowing or in the case of perennial crops other than grassland, at least three years (thirty-six months) before the first harvest of products. The accredited inspection and certification agency may decide in certain cases (such as idle use for two years or more) to extend or reduce the conversion period in the light of previous status of the land but the period must equal or exceed twelve months.

3.2.2.2. The conversion period can be extended by the certification programme depending on, e.g., past use of the land and environmental conditions.

3.2.2.3. The certification programme may allow plant products to be sold as "produce of organic agriculture in process of conversion" or a similar description during the conversion period of the farm.

3.2.2.4. For the calculation of inputs for feeding, the feed produced on the farm unit during the first year of organic management, may be classified as organic. This refers only to feed for animals which are themselves being reared within the farm unit and such feed may not be sold or otherwise marketed as organic. Feed produced on the farms in accordance with the national standards is to be preferred over conventionally grown / brought-in feeds.

3.2.3 Diversity in Crop Production

General Principles

The basis for crop production in gardening, farming and forestry in consideration of the structure and fertility of the soil and surrounding ecosystem and to provide a diversity of species while minimizing nutrient losses.

Recommendations

Diversity in crop production is achieved by a combination of:

- A versatile crop rotation with legumes
- An appropriate coverage of the soil during the year of production which diverse plant species

3.2.3.1. Where appropriate, the certification programme shall require that sufficient diversity is obtained in time or place in a manner that takes into account pressure from insects, weeds, diseases and other pests, while maintaining or increasing soil, organic matter, fertility, microbial activity and general soil health. For non perennial crops, this is normally, but not exclusively, achieved by means of crop rotation.

3.2.4 Fertilization Policy

General Principles

Sufficient quantities of biodegradable material of microbial, plant or animal origin should be returned to the soil to increase or at least maintain its fertility and the biological activity within it. Biodegradable material of microbial, plant or animal origin produced on organic farms should form the basis of the fertilization programme.

Recommendations

Fertilization management should minimize nutrient losses. Accumulation of heavy metals and other pollutants should be prevented. Non synthetic mineral fertilizers and brought in fertilizers of biological origin should be Regarded as supplementary and not a replacement for nutrient recycling. Adequate pH levels should be maintained in the soil.

Standards

3.2.4.1. Biodegradable material of microbial, plant or animal origin shall form the basis of the fertilization programme.

3.2.4.2. The certification programme shall set limitations to the total amount of Biodegradable material of microbial, plant or animal origin brought onto the farm Unit, taking into account local conditions and the specific nature of the crops.

3.2.4.3. The certification programme shall set standards which prevent animal runs from becoming over manured where there is a risk of pollution.

3.2.4.4. Brought-in material (including potting compost) shall be in accordance with Appendix I.

Manures containing human excreta (faeces and urine) shall not be used.

3.2.4.6. Mineral fertilizers shall only be used in a supplementary role to carbon based Materials. Permission for use shall only be given when other fertility management Practices have been optimized.

3.2.4.7. Mineral fertilizers shall be applied in their natural composition and shall not be Rendered more soluble by chemical treatment. The certification programme may grant exceptions which shall be well justified. These exceptions shall not include

Mineral fertilizers containing nitrogen (see Appendix 1).

3.2.4.8. The certification programme shall lay down restrictions for the use of inputs such as mineral potassium, magnesium fertilizers, trace elements, manures and Fertilizers with relatively high heavy metal content and/or other unwanted Substances, e.g. basic slag, rock phosphate and sewage sludge (Appendix I).

3.2.4.9. Chilean nitrate and all synthetic nitrogenous fertilizers, including urea, are prohibited.

3.2.5 Pest, Disease and Weed Management including Growth Regulators

General Principles

Organic farming systems should be carried out in a way which ensures that losses from Pests, diseases and weeds are minimized. Emphasis is placed on the use of a balanced fertilizing programme, use of crops and varieties well-adapted to the environment, fertile Soils of high biological activity, adapted rotations, companion planting, green manures, etc. Growth and development should take place in a natural manner.

Recommendations

Weeds, pests and diseases should be controlled by a number of preventive cultural techniques which limit their development, e.g. suitable rotations, green manures, a balanced fertilizing programme, early and predrilling seedbed preparations, mulching, mechanical control and the disturbance of pest development cycles. The natural enemies of pests and diseases should be protected and encouraged through Proper habitat management of hedges, nesting sites etc.

Pest management should be regulated by understanding and disrupting the ecological needs of the pests. An ecological equilibrium should be created to bring about a balance in the pest predator Cycle

Standards

3.2.5.1. Products used for pest, disease and weed management, prepared at the farm from local plants, animals and micro-organisms, are allowed. If the ecosystem or the quality of organic products is likely to be jeopardized, the Procedure to Evaluate Additional Inputs to Organic Agriculture (Appendix 3) and other relevant criteria shall be used to judge if the product is acceptable. Branded products must always be evaluated

3.2.5.2. Thermic weed control and physical methods for pest, disease and weed management are permitted.

3.2.5.3. Thermal sterilization of soils to combat pests and diseases is restricted to circumstances where a proper rotation or renewal of soil cannot take place. Permission may be given by the certification programme only on a case by case basis.

3.2.5.4. All equipments from conventional farming systems shall be properly cleaned and free from residues before being used on organically managed areas.

3.2.5.5. The use of synthetic herbicides, fungicides, insecticides and other pesticides is prohibited. Permitted products for plant pest and disease control is listed in

Appendix 2.

3.2.5.6 The use of synthetic growth regulators and synthetic dyes are prohibited.

3.2.5.7. The use of genetically engineered organisms or products are prohibited.

3.2.5.8 Accredited certification programmes shall ensure that measures are in place to Prevent transmission of pests, parasites and infectious agents.

3.2.6 Contamination Control

General Principles

All relevant measures should be taken to minimize contamination from outside and from within the farm.

Recommendations

In case of risk or reasonable suspicion of risk of pollution, the certification programme should set limits for the maximum application levels of heavy metals and other pollutants.

Accumulation of heavy metals and other pollutants should be limited.

Standards

3.2.6.1. In case of reasonable suspicion of contamination, the certification programme shall make sure that an analysis of the relevant products to detect the possible sources of pollution (soil and water), shall take place to determine the level of contamination.

3.2.6.2. For protected structure coverings, plastic mulches, fleeces, insect netting and Silage rapping, only products based on polyethylene and polypropylene or other Polycarbonates are allowed. These shall be removed from the soil after use and shall not be burnt on the farmland. The use of polychloride based products are Prohibited.

3.2.7 Soil and Water Conservation

General Principles

Soil and water resources should be handled in a sustainable manner.

Recommendations

Relevant measures should be taken to prevent erosion, salination of soil, excessive and Improper use of water and the pollution of ground and surface water.

Standards

3.2.7.1. Clearing of land through the means of burning organic matter, e.g. slash-and-burn, straw burning shall be restricted to the minimum.

3.2.7.2 The clearing of primary forest is prohibited.

3.2.7.3. Relevant measures shall be taken to prevent erosion.

3.2.7.4. Excessive exploitation and depletion of water resources shall not be allowed.

3.2.7.5. The certification programme shall require appropriate stocking rates which do not lead to land degradation and pollution of ground and surface water.

3.2.7.6. Relevant measures shall be taken to prevent salination of soil and water.

3.2.8 Collection of Non Cultivated Material of Plant Origin and Honey

General Principles

The act of collection should positively contribute to the maintenance of natural areas.

Recommendations

When harvesting or gathering the products, attention should be paid to maintenance and Sustainability of the ecosystem.

Standards

3.2.8.1. Wild harvested products shall only be certified organic if derived from a stable and sustainable growing environment. Harvesting or gathering the product shall not exceed the sustainable yield of the ecosystem, or threaten the existence of plant or animal species.

3.2.8.2. Products can only be certified organic if derived from a clearly defined collecting

Area, which is not exposed to prohibited substances, and which is subject to Inspection.

3.2.8.3. The collection area shall be at an appropriate distance from conventional farming, Pollution and contamination.

3.2.8.4. The operator managing the harvesting or gathering of the products shall be clearly

Identified and be familiar with the collecting area in question.

3.3 ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

3.3.1 Animal Husbandry Management

General Principles

Management techniques in animal husbandry should be governed by the physiological and ethological needs of the farm animals in question.

This includes:

- That animal should be allowed to conduct their basic behavioural needs.
- That all management techniques, including those where production levels and speed of growth should be concerned, for the good health and welfare of the animals.

Recommendations

For welfare reasons the herd or flock size should not adversely affect the behavioural patterns of the animal.

Standards

3.3.1.1. The certification programme shall ensure that the management of the animal environment takes into account the behavioral needs of the animals and provides for:

- Sufficient free movement
- Sufficient fresh air and natural daylight according to the needs of the animals

- Protection against excessive sunlight, temperatures, rain and wind according to the needs of the animals
- Enough lying and/or resting area according to the needs of the animal. For all animals requiring bedding, natural materials shall be provided.
- Ample access to fresh water and feed according to the needs of the animals
- Adequate facilities for expressing behavior in accordance with the biological and ethological needs of the species.
- No compounds used for construction materials or production equipment shall be used which might detrimentally affect human or animal health.

3.3.1.2. All animals shall have access to open air and/or grazing appropriate to the type of animal and season taking into account their age and condition, to be specified by the certification programme.

The certification programme shall allow exceptions in cases where:

- The specific farm or settlement structure prevents such access provided animal welfare can be guaranteed
- Areas where feeding of animals with carried fresh fodder is a more sustainable way to use land resources than grazing, provided animal welfare is not compromised.
- Restrictions shall always include a time limit which shall be set for each exception.
- Poultry and rabbits shall not be kept in cages.
- Landless animal husbandry systems shall not be allowed.

3.3.1.3. When the natural day length is prolonged by artificial lighting, the certification programme shall prescribe maximum hours respective to species, geographical considerations and general health of animals.

3.3.1.4. Herd animals shall not be kept individually. The certification programme may allow exceptions, e.g., male animals, Smallholdings, sick animals and those about to give birth.

3.3.2 Length of Conversion Period

General Principles

The establishment of organic animal husbandry requires an interim period, the conversion period.

Recommendations

The whole farm, including livestock, should be converted according to the standards set out in this document. Conversion may be accomplished over a period of time.

Replacement poultry should be brought onto the holding at the start of the production cycle.

Standards

3.3.2.1. Animal products may be sold as "product of organic agriculture" only after the farm or relevant part of it has been under conversion for at least twelve months and provided the organic animal production standards have been met for the appropriate time

3.3.2.2. The certification programme shall specify the length of time by which the animal production standards shall be met. With regard to dairy and egg production, this period shall not be less than 30 days.

3.3.2.3. Animals present on the farm at the time of conversion may be sold for organic meat if the organic standards have been followed for 12 months.

3.3.3 Brought-in Animals

General Principles

All organic animals should be born and raised in the organic holding.

Recommendations

Organic animal husbandry should not be dependent on conventional raising systems. When trading or exchanging livestock, it should preferably take place between organic farms or as part of a long term cooperation between specific farms.

Standards

3.3.3.1. When organic livestock is not available, the certification programme shall allow brought-in conventional animals according to the following age limits:

- 2 day old chickens for meat production
- 18 week old hens for egg production
- 2 week old for any other poultry
- Piglets up to six weeks and after weaning calves up to 4 weeks old which have received colostrums and are fed a diet consisting mainly of full milk.

Certification programmes shall set time limits (not exceeding 5 years) for implementation of certified organic animals from conception for each type of animal.

3.3.3.2. Breeding stock may be brought in from conventional farms at an annual rate not exceeding 10% of the adult animals of the same species in the organic farm. For brought-in breeding stock the certification programme shall allow a higher yearly maximum than 10% in the following cases and with specific time limits.-

- Unforeseen severe natural or manmade events

- Considerable enlargement of the farm
- Establishment of a new type of animal production on the farm
- Small holdings

3.3.4 Breeds and Breeding

General Principles

Breeds should be chosen which are adapted to local conditions.

Breeding goals should not be at variance with the animal's natural behavior and should be directed towards good health.

Recommendations

Breeding shall not include methods which make the farming system dependent on high technological and capital intensive methods.

Reproduction techniques should be natural.

Standards

3.3.4.1. The certification programme shall ensure that breeding systems are based on breeds that can both copulate and give birth naturally.

3.3.4.2. Artificial insemination is allowed.

3.3.4.3. Embryo transfer techniques are not allowed in organic agriculture.

3.3.4.4. Hormonal heat treatment and induced birth are not allowed unless applied to individual animals for medical reasons and under veterinary advice.

3.3.4.5. The use of genetically engineered species or breeds

Recommendations

Species shall be chosen which do not require mutilation.

Mutilations shall be allowed only in exceptional cases and shall be kept to the minimum.

Standards

3.3.5.1 Mutilations are not allowed.

The certification programme shall allow the following exceptions:

- Castrations
- Tail docking of lambs
- Dehorning
- Ringing
- Mulesing

Suffering shall be minimised and anaesthetics used where appropriate.

3.3.6 Animal Nutrition

General Principles

The livestock should be fed 100% organically grown feed of good quality.

All feed shall come from the farm itself or be produced within the region.

- Farm animal by-products (e.g. abattoir waste) to ruminants
- Droppings, dung or other manure (all types of excreta) even if technologically processed
- Feed subjected to solvent (e.g. hexane), extraction (soya and rape seed meal) or the addition of other chemical agents
- Pure amino acids

- Genetically engineered organisms or products thereof

This covers both organic and conventional feeding stuffs.

3.3.6.6. Vitamins, trace elements and supplements shall be used from natural origin when available in appropriate quantity and quality. The certification programme shall define conditions for use of vitamins and minerals from synthesised or unnatural sources.

3.3.6.7. All ruminants shall have daily access to roughage.

3.3.6.8. The following fodder preservatives shall be used:

- Bacteria, fungi and enzymes
- By-products of food industry (e.g. molasses)
- Plant based products

Synthetic chemical fodder preservatives shall be allowed in special weather conditions. The certification programme shall specify conditions for use of substances from synthesised or unnatural sources e.g. acetic, formic and propionic acid, vitamins and minerals.

3.3.6.9. The certification programme shall set minimum weaning times taking into account the natural behaviour of the relevant animal species.

3.3.6.10. Young stock from mammals shall be raised using systems which rely on organic milk, preferably from their own species. In emergencies the certification programme shall allow the use of milk from non-organic farming systems or dairy based milk substitutes so long as they do not contain antibiotics or synthetic additives.

3.3.7 Veterinary Medicine

General Principles

Management practices should be directed to the wellbeing of animals, achieving maximum resistance against disease and preventing infections. Sick and injured animals shall be given prompt and adequate treatment.

Recommendations

Natural medicines and methods, including homeopathy, ayurvedic, unani medicine and acupuncture, shall be emphasized. When illness does occur the aim should be to find the cause and prevent future outbreaks by changing management practices.

Where appropriate, the certification programme should set conditions based on the farm's veterinary records to minimise the use of medicines.

The certification programme should make a list of medicines specifying the withholding periods.

Standards

3.3.7.1. The well-being of the animals is the primary consideration in the choice of illness treatment. The use of conventional veterinary medicines are allowed when no other justifiable alternative is available.

3.3.7.2. Where conventional veterinary medicines are used, the withholding period shall

Be at least double the legal period.

3.3.7.3.

- Use of the following substances is prohibited :
- Synthetic growth promoters
- Substances of synthetic origin for production, stimulation or suppression of natural growth

- Hormones for heat induction and heat synchronisation unless used for an individual animal against reproductive disorders, justified by veterinary indications

3.3.7.4. Vaccinations shall be used only when diseases are known or expected to be a problem in the region of the farm and where these diseases cannot be controlled by other management techniques. The certification programme shall define conditions for such cases.

Legally required vaccinations are allowed.

- Genetically engineered vaccines are prohibited.

3.3.8 Transport and Slaughter

General Principles

Transport and slaughter should minimise stress to the animal. Transport distance and frequency should be minimised.

The transport medium should be appropriate for each animal.

Recommendations

Animals should be inspected regularly during transport. Animals should be watered and fed during transport depending on weather conditions and duration of the transport.

Stress to the animal shall be minimized, especially taking into consideration:

- Contact (by eye, ear or smell) of each animal with dead animals or animals in the killing process
- Existing group ties
- Resting time to release stress

Each animal shall be stunned before being bled to death. The equipment used for stunning should be in good working order.

Exceptions can be made according to cultural practice. Where animals are bled without prior stunning this should take place in a calm environment.

Standards

3.3.8.1.

Throughout the different steps of the process there shall be a person responsible for the well-being of the animal.

3.3.8.2

Handling during transport and slaughter shall be calm and gentle. The use of electric sticks and such instruments are prohibited.

3.3.8.3. The certification programme shall set slaughter and transportation standards that will take into consideration:

- Stress caused to the animal and person in charge
- Fitness of the animal
- Loading and unloading
- Mixing different groups of animals or animals of different sex
- Quality and suitability of mode of transport and handling equipment
- Temperatures and relative humidity
- Hunger and thirst
- Specific needs

3.3.8.4. No chemical synthesized tranquillisers or stimulants shall be given prior to or during transport.

3.3.8.5. Each animal or group of animals shall be identifiable during all steps.

3.3.8.6. Where the transport is by axle, the journey time to the slaughterhouse shall not exceed eight hours. Certification programmes may grant exceptions on a case to case basis

3.3.9 Bee Keeping

General Principles

The collection area should be organic and/or wild and should be as varied as possible to fulfill the nutritional needs of the colony and contribute to good health. The feed supplied should be fully organic.

Bee keeping is considered to be part of animal husbandry. The general principles therefore also apply to bee keeping.

Recommendations

The feeding of colonies shall be seen as an exception to overcome temporary feed shortages due to climatic conditions. The foundation comb should be made from organic wax. When bees are grown in wild areas, consideration should be taken of the indigenous insect population. Where the transport is by axle, the journey time to the slaughterhouse shall not exceed eight hours. Certification programmes may grant exceptions on a case to case basis

Standards

3.3.9.1. Hives shall be situated in organically managed fields and/or wild natural areas. Hives shall not be placed close to fields or other areas where chemical pesticides and herbicides are used. Exceptions can be made by certification bodies on a case to case basis.

3.3.9.2. Feeding shall only take place after the last harvest before the season when no foraging feed is available.

3.3.9.3. Each bee hive shall primarily consist of natural materials. Use of construction materials with potentially toxic effects are prohibited.

3.3.9.4. Persistent materials may not be used in beehives where there is a possibility of permeation of the honey and where residues may be distributed in the area through dead bees.

3.3.9.5. Wing clipping is not allowed

3.3.9.6. Veterinary medicine shall not be used in bee keeping. When working with the bees (e.g. at harvest) no repellent consisting of prohibited Substances shall be used.

3.3.9.7. For pest and disease control and for hive disinfection the following products shall be allowed:

- caustic soda
- lactic, oxalic, acetic acid
- formic acid
- sulphur
- etheric oils
- Bacillus thuringiensis

3.4 FOOD PROCESSING AND HANDLING

3.4.1 General

General Principles

Any handling and processing of organic products should be optimised to maintain the quality and integrity of the product and directed towards minimising the development of pests and diseases.

Recommendations

Processing and handling of organic products should be done separately in time or place from handling and processing of non organic products. Pollution sources shall be identified and contamination avoided. Flavouring extracts shall be obtained from food (preferably organic) by means of physical processes.

Standards

3.4.1.1. Organic products shall be protected from co-mingling with non-organic products.

3.4.1.2. All products shall be adequately identified through the whole process.

3.4.1.3. The certification programme shall set standards to prevent and control pollutants and contaminants.

3.4.1.4. Organic and non-organic products shall not be stored and transported together except when labelled or physically separated.

3.4.1.5. Certification programme shall regulate the means and measures to be allowed or recommended for decontamination, cleaning or disinfection of all facilities where organic products are kept, handled, processed or stored.

3.4.1.6. Besides storage at ambient temperature, the following special conditions of storage are permitted (See Appendix 4):

Controlled atmosphere

- Cooling
- Freezing
- Drying
- Humidity regulation
- Ethylene gas is permitted for ripening.

3.4.2 Pest and Disease Control

General Principles

Pests should be avoided by good manufacturing practices. This includes general cleanliness and hygiene. Treatments with pest regulating agents must thus be regarded as the last resort.

Recommendations

Recommended treatments are physical barriers, sound, ultra-sound, light, and UV-light, traps (incl. pheromone traps and static bait traps), temperature control, controlled atmosphere and diatomaceous earth. A plan for pest prevention and pest control should be developed.

Standards

3.4.2.1. For pest management and control the following measures shall be used in order of priority:

- Preventive methods such as disruption, elimination of habitat and access to facilities
- Mechanical, physical and biological methods
- Pesticidal substances contained in the Appendices of the national standards
- Other substances used in traps
- Irradiation is prohibited.

3.4.2.2. There shall never be direct or indirect contact between organic products and prohibited substances. (e.g. pesticides). In case of doubt, it shall be ensured that no residues are present in the organic product.

3.4.2.3. Persistent or carcinogenic pesticides and disinfectants are not permitted.

The certification programme shall set up rules to determine which protection agents and disinfectants may be used.

3.4.3 Ingredients, Additives and Processing Aids

General Principles

100% of the ingredients of agriculture origin shall be certified organic.

Recommendations

For the production of enzymes and other micro-biological products the medium shall be composed of organic ingredients.

- The certification programme should take into consideration:
- The maintenance of nutritional value
- The existence or possibility of producing similar products.

Standards

3.4.3.1. In cases where an ingredient of organic agriculture origin is not available in sufficient quality or quantity, the certification programme may authorise use of non organic raw materials subject to periodic re-evaluation. Such non-organic raw material shall not be genetically engineered.

3.4.3.2. The same ingredient within one product shall not be derived both from an organic and non-organic origin.

3.4.3.3. Water and salt may be used in organic products.

3.4.3.4. Minerals (including trace elements), vitamins and similar isolated ingredients shall not be used.

The certification programme may, grant exceptions where use is legally required or where severe dietary, or nutritional deficiency can be demonstrated.

3.4.3.5. Preparations of micro-organisms and enzymes commonly used in food processing may be used, with the exception of genetically engineered micro-organisms and their products.

3.4.3.6. The use of additives and processing aids shall be restricted.

3.4.4 Processing Methods

General Principles

Processing methods should be based on mechanized, physical and biological processes.

The vital quality of an organic ingredient shall be maintained throughout each step of its processing.

Recommendations

Processing methods shall be chosen to limit the number and quantity of additives and processing aids.

Standards

3.4.4.1. The following kinds of processes are approved:

- Mechanical and physical
- Biological
- Smoking
- Extraction
- Precipitation
- Filtration

3.4.4.2. Extraction shall only take place with water, ethanol, plant and animal oils, vinegar, carbon dioxide, nitrogen or carboxylic acids. These shall be of food grade quality, appropriate for the purpose.

3.4.4.3. Irradiation is not allowed.

3.4.4.4. Filtration substances shall not be made of asbestos nor may they be permeated with substances which may negatively affect the product.

3.4.5 Packaging

General Principles

Ecologically sound materials should be used for the packaging of organic products.

Recommendations.

Packaging materials that affect the organic nature of the contents should be avoided.

Use of PVC materials is prohibited. Laminates and aluminum should be avoided.

Recycling and reusable systems shall be used wherever possible.

Biodegradable packaging materials shall be used.

Standards

3.4.5.1 The materials used must not affect the organoleptic character of the product or transmit to it any substances in quantities that may be harmful to human health.

3.5 LABELLING

General Principles

Labelling shall convey clear and accurate information on the organic status of the product.

Recommendations

When the full standards requirements are fulfilled, products shall be sold as "produce of organic agriculture" or a similar description.

The name and address of the person or company legally responsible for the production or processing of the product shall be mentioned on the label.

Product labels should list processing procedures which influence the product properties in a way not immediately obvious.

Additional product information shall be made available on request. All components of additives and processing aids shall be declared.

Ingredients or products derived from wild production shall be declared as such.

Standards

3.5.1.1. The person or company legally responsible for the production or processing of the product shall be identifiable.

3.5.1.2. Single ingredient products may be labelled as "produce of organic agriculture" or a similar description when all Standard requirements have been met.

3.5.1.3. Mixed products where not all ingredients, including additives, are of organic origin may be labelled in the following way (raw material weight):

- Where a minimum of 95% of the ingredients are of certified organic origin, products may be labelled "certified organic" or similar and should carry the logo of the certification programme.
- Where less than 95% but not less than 70% of the ingredients are of certified organic origin, products may not be called "organic". The word "organic" may be used on the principal display in statements like "made with organic ingredients" provided there is a clear statement of the proportion of the organic ingredients. An indication that the product is covered by the certification programme may be used, close to the indication of proportion of organic ingredients.
- Where less than 70% of the ingredients are of certified organic origin, the indication that an ingredient is organic may appear in the ingredients list. Such product may not be called "organic".

3.5.1.4. Added water and salt shall not be included in the percentage calculations of organic ingredients.

3.5.1.5. The label for in-conversion products shall be clearly distinguishable from the label for organic products.

3.5.1.6. All raw materials of a multi-ingredient product shall be listed on the product label in order of their weight percentage. It shall be apparent which raw materials are of organic certified origin and which are not. All additives shall be listed with their full name.

If herbs and/or spices constitute less than 2% of the total weight of the product, they may be listed as "spices" or "herbs" without stating the percentage.

3.5.1.7. Organic products shall not be labelled as GE (genetic engineering) or GM (genetic modification) free in order to avoid potentially misleading claims about the end product. Any reference to genetic engineering on product labels shall be limited to the production method.

3.6 STORAGE & TRANSPORT

General Principles

Product integrity should be maintained during storage and transportation of organic products.

Recommendations

Organic Products must be protected at all times from co-mingling with non-organic products. Organic products must be protected at all times from contact with materials and substances not permitted for use in organic farming and handling.

Standards

3.6.1 Where only part of the unit is certified and other products are non-organic, the organic products should be stored and handled separately to maintain their identity.

3.6.2 Bulk stores for organic product should be separate from conventional product stores and clearly labeled to that effect.

3.6.3 Storage areas and transport containers for organic product should be cleaned using methods and materials permitted in organic production. Measures should be taken to prevent possible contamination from any pesticide or other treatment not listed in Appendix-2

Permitted/Restricted/Not allowed Products for use in Organic Crop Production

Products for use in Fertilizing and Soil conditioning

In organic agriculture the maintenance of soil fertility may be achieved through the recycling of organic material whose nutrients are made available to crops through the action of soil micro-organisms and bacteria. Many of these inputs are restricted for use in organic production. In this appendix “restricted” means that the conditions and the procedure for use shall be set by the certification programme. Factors such as contamination, risk of nutritional imbalances and depletion of natural resources shall be taken into consideration.

1. Matter produced on and Organic Farm Unit

1. Farmyard& poultry manure, slurry, urine - Permitted
2. Crop residues and green manure - Permitted
3. Straw and other mulches - Permitted

2. Matter produced Outside the Organic Farm Unit

1. Blood meal, meat meal, bone meal and feather meal - Restricted without preservatives
2. Compost made from any carbon based residues - Restricted (animal excrement including poultry)

3. Farmyard manure, slurry, urine restricted (Preferably after control fermentation and or appropriate dilution)- not permitted.
4. Fish and fish products without preservatives- Restricted
5. Guano -Restricted
6. Human excrement- Not allowed
7. By-products from the food and textile industries of biodegradable -Restricted material of microbial, plant or animal origin without any synthetic additives
8. Peat without synthetic additives (Prohibited for soil conditioning)- Permitted
9. Saw dust, wood shavings, wood provided which comes – Permitted from untreated wood
10. Sea weed and sea weed products obtained by physical process, extraction - Restricted with water or aqueous acid and / alkali solution
11. Sewage sludge and urban compost from separated sources - Restricted which are monitored for contamination
12. Straw –Restricted
13. Vermicasts- Restricted
14. Animal Charcoal –Restricted
15. Compost and spent mushroom and vermiculate substance- Restricted
16. Compost from organic household – Restricted
17. Compost from plant residues- Restricted
18. By products from oil palm, coconut and cocoa- Restricted (including empty fruit bunch, palm oil mill effluent (pome), cocoa peat and empty cocoa pods

19. By products of industries processing ingredients from -
Restricted organic agriculture
20. By products from oil palm, coconut and cocoa - Restricted (including empty fruit bunch, palm oil mill
effluent (pome), cocoa peat and empty cocoa pods

3. Minerals

1	Basic slag	Restricted
2	Calcareous and magnesium rocks	Restricted
3	Calcified sea weed	Permitted
4	Calcium chloride	Permitted
5	Calcium carbonate of network origin	Permitted (Chalk, limestone, gypsum and phosphate chalk)
6	Mineral potassium with chlorine content	Restricted (e.g. sulphate of potash, kainite, syslvinite, patenkali)
7	Natural phosphates	(Rock phosphates) Restricted
8	Pulverised rock	Restricted
9	Sodium chloride	Restricted
10	Trace elements (boron, Fe, Mn, Mo, Zn)	Restricted
11	Woodash from untreated wood	Restricted
12	Potassium sulphate	Restricted
13	Magnesium sulphate (Epson salt)	Restricted
14	Gypsum (calcium sulphate)	Restricted
15	Stillage and stillage extract	Restricted
16	Aluminum calcium phosphate	Restricted
17	Sulphur	Restricted
18	Stone mill	Restricted
19	Clay (bentonite, perlite, zeolite)	Permitted

4. Microbiological Preparations

- | | |
|--|-------------|
| 1. Bacterial preparations (biofertilizers) | - permitted |
| 2. Biodynamic preparations | - permitted |
| 3. Plant preparations and botanical extracts | - permitted |
| 4. Vermiculate | - permitted |
| 5. Peat | - permitted |

Appendix- 3

Products for plant pest and disease control

Certain products are allowed for use in organic agriculture for the control of pest and diseases in plant production. Many of these products are restricted for use in organic production. Such products should only be used when absolutely necessary and should be chosen taking the environmental impact into consideration. In this schedule “restricted” means that the conditions and the procedure for use shall be set by the inspection and Certification Agency.

Substances From plant and animal origin

1. Azadirachta indica (neem preparations)	neem oil	Restricted
2. Preparation of rotenone from Derris elliptica		Restricted
	Lonchocarpus, Thephrosia spp
3. Gelatin		Permitted
4. Propolis		Restricted
5. Plant based extracts(ex: neem, garlic, pongamia, etc)	permitted
6. Preparations on basis of pyrethrins extracted from	permitted
7. Chrysanthemum cinerariaefolium , containing possibly a synergist pyrethrum cinerafolium	Restricted
8. Release of parasite predators of insects pests		Restricted
9. Preparation from Ryania species		Restricted
10. Tobacco tea		Not allowed
11.Lecithin		Restricted
12. Casein		Permitted
13.Sea weeds, sea weed meal, sea weed extracts,		Restricted
	Sea salt and salty water
14.Extract from mushroom(Shitake fungus)		Permitted

15. Extract from Chlorella	Permitted
16. Fermented products from Aspergillus	Restricted
17. Natural acids (vinegar)	Restricted

Minerals

1. Chloride of lime/soda	Restricted
2. Diatomaceous earth	Restricted
3. Clay (ex: bentonite, perlite, vermiculite, zeolite)	permitted
4. Copper salts/ inorganic salts (Bordeaux mix, copper hydroxide, Inspection and certification Agency used as a fungicide, maximum 8 kg per year depending upon the crop and under the supervision of Inspection and Certification Agency)
5. Mineral powders (stone meal, silicates)	Not allowed
6. Light mineral oils	Restricted
7. Permanganate of Potash	Restricted
8. Lime sulphur (calcium polysulphide)	Restricted
9. Silicates (sodium silicate, quartz)	Restricted
10. Sodium bicarbonate	Restricted
11. Sulphur	Restricted

Microorganisms/ Biocontrol agents

1. Vital preparations	permitted
(e.g., Granulosis viruses, Nuclear polyhedrosis virus etc.)

2. Fungal preparations (e.g., Trichoderma species etc.)	permitted
3. Bacterial preparations (e.g. Bacillus species etc.)	permitted
4. Parasites, predators and sterilized insects	permitted

Others

1. Carbon dioxide and nitrogen gas	Restricted
2. Soil soap (Potassium soap)	permitted
3. Ethyl alcohol	Not allowed
4. Homeopathic and Ayurvedic preparations	Permitted
5. Herbal and bio-dynamic preparations	Permitted

Traps
