BENGALURU - 560 001

MESSAGE

A global quest for nutritious food, security of farmers, sustainable agriculture and conservation of environment is fuelling a revolution in organics and millets. The markets for organic products are growing faster with the increasing global demand at 20-25% per annum. Organic farming sector in India is also witnessing unprecedented growth since the last decade. It is a matter of pride that, Karnataka is among the pioneering state in organic movement in India where many progressive and innovative farmers started organic agriculture on their own.

Millets are also proving nutritious and healthy smart foods because of their high nutritional value and these can be grown in rainfed areas with minimal nutrients and water.

I am glad to mention that the state Government is giving support and encouragement for organic farming and millet cultivation by two prong strategy: Sustainability and marketing.

Organics and Millets-2018: International Trade Fair is an ideal platform to provide better and effective domestic and international market linkages to the producers and marketers and an excellent opportunity to all the stake holders of organics and millets.

MESSAGE

The time has come to lay emphasis and catalyse the marketing of organic commodities and products produced by farmers. In view of this important objective towards establishing better market linkages for organic and millet products, the Department of Agriculture, Government of Karnataka, in association with the International Competence Centre for Organic Agriculture" (ICCOA), is organizing the 'Organics and Millets 2018- International Trade Fair'. This International Trade Fair will be a platform for exhibiting organics & millets primary & secondary products, linking buyers with sellers, building dialogues through an international conference, organising consumer connect programmes and farmers' workshops, among other things, focusing various aspects relevant to organics and millets. The event would provide ample opportunities for the marketers, food processors, equipment manufacturers, farmers and other stakeholders who have engaged in the field of organics and millets to establish forward and backward linkages.

The Department of Agriculture, Government of Karnataka is keen to develop the state into a hub, offering state-of-the-art technologies at the production as well as post-harvest levels in organic and millet sub sectors. Our state welcomes technical partnerships with the world's leading institutes and companies to work towards sharing knowledge, techniques and innovation.

The Government of Karnataka is always committed towards encouraging farmers engaging in organic and dry-land agriculture, with a special focus on smart foods such as millets, within the State. The release of this catalogue with exhibitors information is appropriate and appreciable. I hope this catalogue will be of great use for the producers, consumers/buyers and other stakeholders.
